PRESENTS

“Beauty Through Darkness”

paintings & drawings by

LORI TAYLOR

GALLERY SEVEN, 6701 Zionsville Road, Indianapolis, is pleased to present a collection of paintings and drawings by Lori Taylor. Gallery Seven is located in the lobby of the Pike Performing Arts Center.

Ms. Taylor is a native Hoosier who grew up in the country. In this childhood environment she developed a great respect for the beauty of the outdoors, and an even deeper fondness for trees. Her work reflects her fascination with the way the branches wind and contort, creating various abstracted and figurative shapes. This exhibit features many of her pieces in oil paint as well as charcoal drawings.

Ms. Taylor graduated in 2007 obtaining a Master of Art with Painting Specialization from Indiana State University. She received her BS in Art Education in 1998, and has been an art teacher at Brownsburg HS for the past eight years.

This captivating exhibit is FREE.

Gallery Seven is open Monday through Friday from 1:00 until 4:00 pm and on during any public performance in the theater. For an appointment, call 317-216-5443.

The exhibit will run Feb. 10 through Mar. 23, 2008
